4.0 Policy Content

4.1 Background

Councillors are required under the State Records Act 1998, to keep records they create or receive that relate to the business of Council. This policy sets out the requirements and the process for registering Councillor records into Council's record keeping system.

4.2 Principles

What is a record?

Recorded information in any form created or received and maintained by an organisation or person in the transaction of business and conduct of affairs and is kept as evidence of such activity.

Importance of Record Keeping

Records are a vital asset to Council. Many records created and received by Councillors have the potential to:

1. Support the work of Councillors and Council's delivery program, management and administration
2. Help Councillors and Council deliver customer services in an efficient fair and equitable manner
3. Provide evidence of Councillors actions and decisions and establish precedents for future decision making
4. Protect the rights and interests of the Council, Councillors and customers

Accurate and timely record keeping provides evidence and protection for Councillors in the event that questions are raised regarding conduct. Documenting events, activities and decisions enables Councillors to recall or provide information on a matter when required and supports the transparency of Councillor conduct.

Examples of Council Records

Examples of Council Records which need to be captured include (but are not limited to):

- Correspondence, including e-mails, regarding building and development matters, licences or leases of public land, tendering and procurement.

1 Creating Records

Councillors should create and capture full and accurate records of any significant business undertaken in the course of their official duties for Council. Significant business can include:

- Providing advice, instructions or recommendations
- Drafts of documents for Council containing significant annotations or submitted for comment or approval by others.
- Correspondence received or sent relating to their work undertaken for Council.

Details of significant conversations should be recorded. Records should be made as soon as possible after the event to ensure the information is accurate and forwarded to Council.

2 Capturing Records

Any records of Council business must be forwarded as soon as practicable to Council's Records Officer and this will then be captured into Council's Record Management System - TRIM. This includes comments, complaints, issues etc relating to Council that have been posted onto a Councillor's personal social media site.

Electronic records -should be emailed to council@nambucca.nsw.gov.au.

Paper records should be forwarded to Council with the attention of the Records Officer.

If the records are of a sensitive or confidential nature, the Councillor should note this on the record so that appropriate security controls can be applied to the document.

Correspondence from Council to Councillors will be captured into TRIM before being sent to Councillors.

3. Councillor Copies

If a Councillor retains copies of any records once the original has been sent to Council for capturing, these should be retained only while needed for current Council business. The routine destruction of copies is permitted under the State Records Act 1998.

Councillor Mail

Mail addressed to Councillors and received at Council's Administration Centre will be captured into Trim by Records staff and then forwarded to the Councillor electronically.

Emails received by Council marked for the attention of Councillors will be captured into Trim and then forwarded to the Councillor's email address.

Disposal of Records

Records must be disposed of in accordance with the State Records Act 1998 and the General Retention and Disposal Authorities issued by State Records (GA39 and GA45).

Councillors should liaise with Council's Records Officer regarding the disposal of any records of Council business to ensure legislative requirements are met, destruction is undertaken appropriately and disposal decisions are documented.

Council will provide access to a secure destruction bin at the Council administration building for the purpose of disposal of duplicate copies of records.

Protection of Records

Records can contain personal and confidential information which must not be disclosed to unauthorised persons. Councillors should ensure records storage areas are kept secure, passwords to networked systems are protected and sensitive records are not left unattended.
